Back Loads of Beauty and Sweetness.
On last Monday a great caravan of vehicles came down from Due West to this city, loaded with the handsomest specimens of beauty and female loveliness that ever greeted the eye of idolatrous lovers of the divinites. They came to see the beautiful goods in our store, and while they were looking at the headgear and whatever else adorns the female form our young gentlemen looked with admiration.

Mr. Lyon Says Tillman is Trying to Belittle Committee.

Columbia, April 7.—The first official protest against the address of Senator Tillman has been made by Mr. Fraser Lyon, of the investigating committee.
The letter is addressed to an attorney of Columbia, who is interested in the case, and through whom a copy secured only after the understanding that the name was not divulged. It is a rather lively letter and reads:

"Abbeville, S. C., April 3, 1906.
"Your two letters of recent date were received by me upon my return home yesterday after an absence of about two weeks. You will, therefore, understand why you have not had an earlier reply.

"While it is true that I do not think there is any good reason for withholding payment of the claim of the Cook and Bernheimer company, of New York, still, as I have said heretofore, I will not give my consent to the payment of this or any other dispensary claim now held up until the matter of such payment is discussed at a public session of our committee.

"I feel sure that you will appreciate my position in this matter especially since the publication of Senator Till-man's address to the people of South Carolina, in which he says, 'Is there not plenty of opportunity for more graft and secret transactions in regard to the settlement of these accounts?' Will not the legislative committee be suspected of corruption if it does not get in the middle of the road and stay there, that is, stand by the law, obey it itself and require others to do so?
Why so much delay?"

You see this additional reason for my position. It is unfortunate for your clients to have had dealings with an institution which no one can even investigate without having it suggested or insinuated that he may be a grafter, or at least has a good opportunity to be so. While I regard this reference to our committee as only a shrewd attempt to shake public confidence in us and intended to obstruct and interfere with our work, which is evidently becoming distasteful to many of those who are irrevocably wedded to the dispensary, still when I see this propensity to criticize us, I will be especially careful not to put myself in a position that could, with even a color of justice, be criticized.

"In your letter of March 26, you practically asked the question, 'Why so much delay?' I know no fact that I have learned in the dispensary investigation that I shall intentionally withhold from the public. Sometimes I do not think it best for success of the investigation to reveal facts and suggestions as soon as they come to me, or disclose our plans for the future, so in reply to your question I will answer you only so far as I think the present status of the investigation justifies.

"We are trying to get the facts in regard to several suspicious matters which we think should be investigated. Among them is the statement, as I recall it, of Senator Tillman that he returned certain rebates to a distillery. We wish to find the credits on the books of the distillery showing the amount of rebates which Senator Tillman said he returned as a gift for the gratitude he felt to the liquor concern crediting the State of South Carolina.
Besides this there has come to my ears a rumor, the source of which I do not now recall, but which I think should be looked into, that Senator Tillman, when governor was presented with a plan by a liquor concern. It may be that the receipts may be shown for the rebates which may have been returned and for payment of this plan which may have been received, as it was remored, to be the satisfaction in the case of the Towill horse matter.

Still we do not know the facts in regard to these things and think the legislature intended for us to investigate such transactions as these, as well as other vague and uncertain matters to which common rumor gives currency.
We must do our duty in looking into these things and you may judge by the above samples that we must have much time in doing it. Furthermore, it is not expedient and I would not approve of the committee holding a public session every time. Senator Christensen and I have done all we can in examining each claim. I recognize the fact that we may be chasing a will-o'-the-wisp in this matter and that your clients may suffer in the meantime, but whether our efforts be such a chase it seems certain that in all events our committee must walk through the mire.

"The opinion is so prevalent that the dispensary has been a breeder of so much corruption that no one can touch it without the suspicion of some one being aroused. Unfortunately in the case of our committee, the insinuation of this suspicion is cast upon us in the public prints by one who above all others may know of the innermost inception. I trust, however, that we will finally emerge from our distasteful task, meriting the confidence and approval of honest citizens.

"Believing that this will satisfactorily explain our delay, I am,
"Yours very truly, (Signed) J. Fraser Lyon."

TILLMAN'S ANSWER.

"Dirty, cowardly insinuations," he says—declares his purchases illegal.

A letter from Mr. Lyon, of the dispensary investigating committee to an unknown man, was made public Saturday.

Yesterday this letter was shown Senator Tillman, who is at Clemson, by a representative of the local morning paper. Among other things Senator Tillman had to say, in reply, was the following:

"I am surprised," he said, "that a gentleman such as I thought Mr. Lyon to be would go in the papers in such a sneaking way as this. Even the name of a lawyer to whom he wrote is given to the public and whether he authorized its publicity or not, I assume it to be authentic.

"I have not attacked the investigating committee; I only warned it in a friendly spirit. And why? Either the $700,000 worth of claims against the state board are valid and binding or they are not. I say they are not, because the whiskey was bought contrary to law and the state is not legally bound for payment.

"The committee knows this now as well as it will ever know it. Messrs Lyon and Christensen have blacklisted certain firms; the presumption is they have discovered evidence of fraud. If those firms have acted dishonestly the old board cannot be clean; but leaving Messrs Lyon and Christensen to hunt for proofs, to which I do not object, again I ask: Why the delay?"

"Whether fraud is proven or not, no decent lawyer will contend that these large purchases of whiskey are legal.
First, because there was not competitive bidding, as the law requires; second, because the law expressly limits the amount that may be on hand to $400,000, and instead of dickering with lawyers employed to collect the money, it is the investigating committee's plain duty to repudiate the whole transaction, forbid the new board to pay for any liquor and thus have an end to it. Messrs Lyon and Christensen will be responsible to the taxpayers of the state if they O. K. a single purchase that was illegally bought."

"What about the piano?" Senator Tillman was asked.

"Well," he replied, "I have heard it said if you throw a rock in the dark and a dog howls you may swear he is hit."

"I have not sought to discredit the investigating committee," the senator continued, "but to warn it, and when Mr. Lyon without provocation, makes public its dirty and cowardly insinuations that a whiskey firm gave me a piano, it is pretty clear to my mind that he howls because he is hit. It was easy enough for him to have found out all about the piano. Mr.
Malone, the music dealer in Columbia, told me to whom he sold it; and who paid for it and he knows when it was bought."

"I note also Mr. Lyon's pretext for delay is that he may look into the records of the Mill Creek Distilling company to see whether there are any credits."

"Mr. Lyon heard my testimony in Columbia, and he knows I said nothing about returning any money for I never received any," said Senator Tillman. "If the books do not show that any money was ever paid they certainly will not show that any was ever returned."

"I want to reiterate and emphasize in the most positive way, my belief that the investigating committee charged with such a great responsibility, should do its duty by deciding at once what is lawful to be done about these whiskey claims; the more lawyers they write letters to or see about this matter, the greater is the danger that there will be a mean scandal."

Tillman And The Committee.

Columbia Record.

Senator Tillman's advice to the investigating committee to "look into the records" in view of the admitted possibility of "secret understandings" in settling claims now on hand, and the fact that somebody ought to be arrested in connection with heavy purchases, were features of his recent address which might have been left out without detriment to the force of his argument, as we pointed out at the time.
However, that is a matter of judgment about which we do not see why Senator Tillman should be reproached for incorporating the address was, nevertheless, no justification for the repetition of the same old story about Tillman getting rebates and the presentation to him of a piano, which he had never received.

These things have been thrashed over time and again, and nothing to substantiate them were brought out so far as we recall. If Senator Tillman said anything in the way of criticism of the committee calling for a reply surely that was not the way to answer it.

Sensor Tillman may be too impetuous, too premature in his demand for arrears, but so that is an error of judgment. The injustice in personalities and insinuations and the repetition of ancient stories do not make the error of judgment any less wrong to proceed to drastic measures at once. We have said the circumstances of the case make it difficult, likely impossible for the committee to have secured all the evidence by now, but looking at the situation generally we do not see why Senator Tillman or anybody else should be pounced upon by the newspapers and others for expressing an opinion that these arrears ought to be made.

Specifically who ought to be arrested is another question. The committee itself has given ground for the opinion that somebody ought to be arrested. It has put a number of men doing business with the dispensary on the list of those who were accused as it was asserted, they had had "improper dealings" with the dispensary, or words to that effect.
Now these were different and quite wrong from the error of judgment. The committee must have been two parties to them.
The committee must have evidence of the facts, else it would not have taken the course it did.

Under the circumstances any citizen who thinks about the matter will be of the opinion that it is different and quite wrong for any one to suggest that somebody ought to be arrested. That any one should express such a view does not indicate that he is adversely criticizing the committee, in attempting to jamper it or is trying to detract attention from the main issue. It may not be the proper time just now to act, but because any citizen, or Senator Tillman, may think so, even though his judgment be wrong, is no justification for anyone to make wrong motives, make insinuations or cast reflections upon the honesty of intention or purpose.

Persons in the same position as Senator Tillman are different and quite wrong from the state any good, and we are sorry to see a beginning made thus early in the canvass.
Senator Tillman cannot be held wholly blameless for it is quite evident that there are others just as adept and probably more willing to make the campaign one of mud slinging.

IN THE A. R. P. CHURCH.

Rev. D. G. Phillips Conducted the Services Last Sunday Morning.

On last Sunday morning the Rev. D. G.
Phillips of Atlanta conducted the service in the Associate Reformed Church. He was in town in attendance upon the meeting of the Synod, and he was invited to the pulpit at the invitation of the pastor. The little editor, more than fifty years ago, who little printer boy, John W. West, used to put the writings of his father, the Rev. D. G.
Phillips. He was a constant contributor to the church paper, and from our acquaintance with his writings we learned to love and respect him. For this reason if for no other, we were glad of the opportunity to hear the son. In the pulpit his personality made a fine appearance. His manner was pleasing and in reading was clear, after service, and when coming home, we heard enthusiastic praise of his sermon. His subject was: "The tolerance of the Christian Religion." He thought that some of his hearers might be surprised at such an utterance from the pulpit, but the statement he said is true and justly true. The Christian religion is the only religion by which men could obtain salvation. He said that the other religions than our own religion, we instead of being charitable, would descend to license, when we would be short of living up to our own profession. He ridiculed any idea of having one religion for China, one for Europe and one for America. The Christian religion was the religion for all. He spoke of the habit of some men in speaking of Mohammedanism and of the Jews, as if they linked together as great leaders of religious thought. It was like unting the names of the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans with that of Long Cape Creek. And he seemed to think that there was little more and less found outside the Christian religion. Our religion is all that is needed. So to speak, all sorts and conditions of men should live in the same diet. No giving of milk to some and meat to others. He thought science and philosophy very poor witnesses in spiritual affairs which necessarily involve physical conditions.

If this editor had been talking of science and spiritual matters, we would contend that there is no conflict between science and the Christian religion. The spiritual truths of the Good Book are self-evident, and need no relating up by either the other religions.
It isn't what this man or that man thinks.
The question is "whom say ye that I am?" Flesh the gospel, and let science and other than our own religions alone.

During the delivery of his sermon, we thought we could write a small volume in reply.

The seeing of a son of the father whom we loved in younger life and in better days carried us in thought back to the old days at Due West, where people we loved as we loved each other, but who were no more.
Prof. J. F. L. had gone to our home beyond the stars. The men of fifty years ago had passed on, and the new generation had come to the fore. And among the best and the sweetest memories of our youth were those of kindred and word and generosity of deed by Dr. E. B. Franklin.
His words on one particular occasion have rang through our ears thousands of times and we will never be able to leave us we will bless his memory with our latest breath.

On Sunday morning the church was well filled, and the Christian brethren of devotion and prayer were present. This congregation is always glad to welcome visitors.

When Mr. Phillips had concluded his sermon, the pastor read from the Scriptures, and invited all brethren in the communion of the church to partake of the Lord's Supper.
This was no formal invitation, but a cordial and sincere one, and the congregation in celebrating the sacrament.
The preacher said that during the singing of the Psalms, those who were not communicants, and who were not members of the church, but did not wish to remain, would be excused.

Insurance by the Town.

A good business man suggests that the town organize an insurance company. This town has paid out in twenty years, perhaps $200,000, in policies, while in the same time the losses have been next to nothing. Our banks are successful, and we are quite sure that a fire insurance company properly managed would get rich.
